Bigfoot Behavior Volume II Ray Crowe

Here's the second of the Behavior series. Dr. Robert Alley does the splendid Foreword. Volume starts out with actual Behaviorisms of Bigfoot like: Peeping Tom, Curious, Lifts Cars, wearing human clothes, ridgerunning, in the road-hit, sex, or the green reports (algae)...45 classes. Then I had a chapter on motions: swaying, sleeping, or pooping...another 35 classes. The diet is extensive, covering everything from eating mushrooms to hunting or fishing technique...of deer, bear, even goats. Then chapters "Bigfoot Hates Trees" and "Bigfoot Hates Dogs." There are chapters on Beds and Lairs, Vocalizations, Tracks, or the Maupinguari-a sloth. Even some little-known information like: Bigfoot in the trees, covering tracks, quadrupeds-how they hold their feet when often running on all-fours. Often mistaken for bears that way. Then there are the three-toed enigmas...monsters, or what. How about speculation on baboons being the Dog-Faced creatures. Even a few reports of tails. Again, project was rushed, but the info is available. I read text thru twice and spell-checked. Format is with a lot of fuzzy old pictures from back issues of the Track Record, put together with text in a non-blocked manner. Have a great read...write a review for Amazon please.
