Two New Novels : The Premier & The Train Georges (Translated from the French by Daphne Woodward) Simenon

The two novels brought together in this volume, each full Simenon length, have a unity of theme. In each, crisis develops out of an overwhelming sexual obsession. The Blue Room is the setting where two lovers meet, a place outside reality, yet stronger than reality. In an intricate pattern, which reveals itself as the interrogations of a prisoner, a man's desperate situation is suspensefully unriddled. A healthy, handsome, uncomplicated male slowly comes to understand the ruthless passion of a woman. The Accomplices is the taut, powerful story of a hit/and/run driver whose amorous preoccupations, for a fateful moment, make him deaf to the sound of a horn and keep him on the wrong side of the road. When he witnesses the crash of a bus full of children, he cannot face what he has caused and escapes the scene. In both novels, Simenon lives up to his reputation as "perhaps the greatest and most truly novelistic novelist in French literature today". These tense stories develop with the inevitability and speed of Greek tragedy
