More Than Words: Readings in Transport, Communication and the History of Postal Communication (Mercury Series (0316-1854))

More Than Words features the work of more than twenty scholars from Canada and abroad on topics related to postal communication. Drawing on recent trends in social and cultural history, the authors address the history and importance of the post from such perspectives as infrastructure, technology, nation-building, and interpersonal communications. Demonstrating the power of the written word, these new essays examine the post's essential role in building contacts, exchanging emotions, and forging a culture of communication – in which more than words are exchanged.
